

Opening for a Full / Adjunct Professor in Econometrics

The Department of Econometrics, Faculty of Economics and Social Sciences, University of Geneva invites applications for a position of a Full Professor or an Adjunct Professor in Econometrics starting August 1, 2009 or at a convenient date. Candidates should hold a relevant Ph.D., must have a proven track record of research and publications in theoretical econometrics, in particular in microeconometrics, in refereed journals commensurate with the position they choose to apply for. Experience in applied econometric research, in various areas of economics including environmental economics, is desirable. The candidate must also have experience in teaching at the undergraduate and graduate levels and doctoral supervision.

The position involves a teaching load of six hours a week for 28 weeks. Teaching is both at the undergraduate and graduate levels. Teaching at the undergraduate level is in French (with a period of adjustment) and teaching at the graduate level is in English. The successful candidate will also be required to supervise Masters-level and doctoral research work and fulfill administrative tasks related to the position.

The application deadline is November 21, 2008.

Applications, including a cover letter, a detailed CV with the list of publications and three references (two copies), should be sent to:

The Office of the Dean, Faculty of Economics and Social Sciences (SES), University of Geneva, Uni-Mail, Boulevard du Pont-d'Arve 40, CH-1211 Genève 4, Switzerland.

For further information contact: Prof. Jaya Krishnakumar, Head of Department (jaya.krishnakumar@unige.ch)

With a view towards increasing the proportion of female professors, the University of Geneva encourages female candidates to apply.